Talking to Families

May 11, 2010
3:00 PM - 6:30 PM

Presented by:
Dr. L. Erik von Hahn, M.D.

In this workshop, participants will learn about the experience and perspective of parents as they advocate for services. Topics will include:

- The five basic expectations that families “bring to the table” when advocating for their child
- How conflicts between the family and the school team can arise when these expectations are not acknowledged or addressed
- Ways to use a neurodevelopment checklist format to discuss the needs of students and help families understand their child’s needs

Participants are encouraged to bring medical or psychiatric evaluation reports to the seminar. These reports will be analyzed to reinforce the salient points of the lecture.
